LAID AT REST.

Final Ceremonies Over the Remains of Dr. D. M. Moore.

Yesterday afternoon all that was mortal of the late Dr. David Moore was laid at rest in Greenwood cemetery. The funeral services were held at the residence of the deceased at 2300 Oakwood street at 2:30 o'clock p. m. A very large audience was present to pay respect to the memory of the deceased.

The floral offerings were very beautiful among them were a large, an anchor, star and crescent, and a pillow bearing the name of the departed. The music was furnished by the regular church choir. The body was in charge of the Masons, of which order Dr. Moore was a member.

On the platform were seated Rev. T. A. Parker, Rev. James Miller, Rev. H. H. O'Connell, Rev. W. E. Pennington, and Rev. W. B. Dyer, of Macon.

The services were opened by Rev. H. H. O'Connell reading a scripture selection, and Rev. T. A. Parker made the opening prayer. Rev. James Miller presided over the services, which were most impressive.

He looked for his last earthly home, "Thou shalt the dust return to the earth as it was; and the spirit shall return to God who gave it." His dedications from the text were that man's nature is double. The highest side tends to rise; the body tends toward the earth. It is as natural for the soul to seek its source as for the body to seek the earth. The struggle between these opposing tendencies is eternal. It is a natural law for the body to be drawn toward the earth, and for the soul to be drawn toward God. It is for man to die. Today the body of the deceased is committed to earth while his spirit has returned to God who gave it. At times it seems strange that we should always live; especially is this true when we see the body die.

This is the end of the body of our brother, but what of the soul? "The spirit shall return to God who gave it." Our brother's spirit has returned to God who gave it. It is a natural law for the body to be drawn toward the earth, and for the soul to be drawn toward God. It is for man to die. Today the body of the deceased is committed to earth while his spirit has returned to God who gave it. At times it seems strange that we should always live; especially is this true when we see the body die.

HYMNARY BLISS.

The Wedding of Miss Mary L. Jody and Mr. Archie F. Wilson.

The marriage of Miss Mary L. Jody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jody, and Mr. Archie F. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wilson, was solemnized at 3 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, two miles north-west of the city, in a quiet yet very impressive manner. The beautiful wedding ceremony was pronounced by Rev. Charles E. Torrey of the First Baptist church, in the presence of about thirty relatives and more intimate friends of the contracting parties. The pastor of the residence was tastefully decorated with hot house flowers, and while there was no attempt at display there was an air of festivity which marked the affair as one of the most beautiful and impressive weddings ever held in the city. At the close of the ceremony the relatives and friends passed forward and expressed the warmest wishes for the future. Following the congratulations an elegant wedding supper was served and afterwards the company lingered an hour or longer in social converse with Mr. Wilson and his bride.

The bride was becomingly attired in a suit of emerald cloth with trimmings of emerald velvet, and carried a large bouquet of roses. The groom wore conventional black. The bride is a young lady, well and favorably known in this city, Edwinstown and Upper Allen, where she formerly resided. Since her residence in this city she has made friends of friends upon her return to a new abode. Mr. Wilson is a young man of health, wealth and happiness in the fullest measure.

Mr. Wilson is secretary and treasurer of the H. M. Miller Gun company and a member of the board of directors of the Calumet club, and is recognized by the business men of Decatur as a young man of ability and enterprise. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will for the present make their home at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Wilson at Edwinstown Place and by the time Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Wilson will have returned next fall from their annual tour of the west, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wilson will take possession of their new home, which will be commenced at once on some desirable residence lot in the city. Those present from abroad were Misses Laura and Jessie Gontier, of Edwinstown, Miss Janette Brown, of Edwinstown, and Miss Middy Bartlett of Upper Allen.

WORTH BRADLEY ALL RIGHT
He Got Out of His Chicago Trouble Promptly.

During the past summer paragraph in the Chicago papers, which were copied by the Decatur newspapers, stated that Worth Bradley of this city had been arrested with another man and placed under $500 bonds for the alleged theft of $10,000 from the Chicago stock exchange. It was stated that the two men were caught at 5 cents each in exchange for beer or cash. This was the last heard of the case until Mr. Bradley, who was in the city on a visit this week, gave a full and satisfactory explanation.

In an interview Mr. Bradley said: "Yes, there was an arrest for stealing tickets, but I had nothing to do with it. I was a platform man at 12th street. The other fellow did the stealing. He had charge of the tickets in which the tickets were placed and stily extorted by the operator. He was arrested and so was I. We were taken away and searched. I knew nothing of what was up until arrested, and did not know until then that the other fellow was a thief. None of the missing tickets were found on me. The other fellow had about a dozen in his pockets. He waived examination and went to the city jail. I remained on an immediate trial. I got it, and I was promptly acquitted. The company was satisfied that I was innocent. I have since been in the employ of the company and am now a conductor on the line."

Mr. Bradley threw back his overcoat and exhibited the uniform of the Elevated Railway conductor. He put in ten hours a day and runs from Congress street to the end of the line near Jackson Park. Working as he does he is required to be on duty during the World's Fair.

FUNERAL OF JAMES O. MILSTEAD.
Services at Grace M. E. Church Conducted by Rev. J. W. Crane.

The funeral of James O. Milstead was held at Grace M. E. church yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The funeral was a very large one the Modern Woodmen, of which the deceased was a member, were out in full force headed by Goodman's band. The church was crowded with friends and neighbors and brethren. At the grave the remains of the deceased Rev. J. W. Crane, of this city, who he had been requested by telegram to be present, was made to be temporarily conducted the religious ceremonies.

Mr. Crane took no text, but instead read an interesting obituary of the life of the deceased which he followed by an appropriate talk touching the good character of J. O. Milstead. The music was furnished by the Grace M. E. church choir, consisting of Will L. Shubert, George McCallister, Mrs. John Baker, Mrs. A. W. Oakley. The pallbearers were B. F. Burnside, John Elmer, Will Irwin, John Schermer, A. L. Brightwell and Sylvester Elmer.

Inspection Delayed.
As early as a date as possible the inspection committee for the city council will inspect the Harpatic premises for the extension of the Broadway street sewer. J. E. Boring was appointed by the mayor, and Mr. Harpatic selected Mr. Baldwin. The two gentlemen visited O. E. Greene, but the committee cannot without the aid of Mr. Boring, the city engineer, and he is at his home sick. Possibly the committee will be able to make a report by Monday. Mr. B. places his dam, or something less than $1000.

Funeral of Rebecca Walker.
The funeral of Rebecca Walker, who died at Macon on Monday, took place in Macon yesterday from the late R. B. Church. Rev. J. E. Boring delivered the funeral service. The deceased was over 80 years of age, and was the mother of Edmond Walker and Elmer Walker of Macon, and J. T. Walker of Macon and J. W. Walker of Walker. She had been sick about two months.

B. Gorin. It is arranged for Rev. Galeator to deliver upon his duties at once as presiding elder of the Decatur district, succeeding Rev. James Miller, who goes to the Marshall Avenue Methodist church in Chicago. Rev. Galeator will bring his family to Decatur as soon as he can find a suitable dwelling. He may leave the O. B. Gorin residence on Prairie avenue, and take possession in two weeks, when Mr. Gorin moves into his new dwelling. Rev. Galeator has four children, the eldest 11 years of age. The new presiding elder thinks he will be pleased with Decatur and the people. He is a young man, born in Warren county, Ohio, in 1854. Little Goldie.

Sturdy evening, March 4th, the Little Goldie Rocky Mountain Wolf Co. will appear at the Grand. The Dayton Morning Times, May 11, 1891, says:

"Little Goldie has a threefold part to play. First as a child of little fellow; next as the ragged bootblack, full of shag and natural sayings and sparkling wit; then as the Rocky Mountain Wolf Co. still a child, but with the skill and self-reliance born of her daily life in the mountains. She is always at hand when needed and the audience is always ready to give her a warm welcome."

And it is safe to predict for her popularity.

Mr. J. S. McClelland, who was a member of the 6th Kentucky Cavalry, is announced as a candidate for the important office of justice of the peace at the approaching townly election. He will submit his name to the consideration of the Republican convention and will abide by the decision of the convention. Mr. McClelland has been a resident of Decatur for a period of 20 years. He has a wide personal acquaintance, and all would be gratified to see him clothed with municipal authority. He is well qualified for the position. If nominated he would be successful at the polls.

LAD AT REST.

Final Ceremonies Over the Remains of Dr. D. M. Moore—Sermon by Rev. James Miller.

Yesterday afternoon all that was mortal of the late Dr. David Nowlin Moore was laid at rest in Greenwood cemetery. The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church at 2:30 o'clock p. m. A very large audience was present to pay respect to the memory of the deceased.

The funeral offerings were very beautiful, among them were a harp, a crown, an anchor, star and crescent, and a pillow bearing the name of the departed. The music was furnished by the regular church choir. The body was in charge of the Masons, of which order Dr. Moore was a member.

On the platform were seated Rev. T. A. Parker, Rev. James Miller, Rev. H. H. O'Neal, Rev. W. H. Penhalligon and Rev. W. H. Daley, of Macon.

The services were opened by Rev. H. H. O'Neal reading a scripture selection and Rev. T. A. Parker made the opening prayer. Rev. James Miller presided the sermon, which was a most impressive one, being one of the best he has preached in Decatur on such an occasion.

He took for his text Eccl. xii:7, "Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was; and the spirit shall return to God who gave it." His deductions from the text were that man's nature is double, the highest side tends to rise to the body toward the earth. It is as natural for the soul to seek its source as for the body to seek the earth. The struggle between these opposing tendencies is mortal. It is as natural for man to live forever as it is for man to die. To-day the body of the deceased is committed to earth while his spirit has returned to God who gave it. At times it seems strange that we should always live; especially is this true when we see the body die.

This is the end of the body of our brother, but what of the soul? "The spirit shall return to God who gave it." Can it be that this spirit of man again falls back into the ocean of the infinite and loses its individuality? The body becomes a part of the earth from which it came, but the characteristics of the divine are individuality, of will, reason, the spirit of man shall return to the God who gave it. That means that man shall return to God by self-education, self-unfolding, self-enrichment—shall rise eternally into the image that gave it.

We come together to-day in a sad hour. A husband, a father, a great physician, a broad, kind christian, benevolent man is gone, but his spirit has gone to the God who gave it. In the last sickness he recognized that the end of his journey had come. He knew that he should die, but he also knew that he should live. He knew that his body should return to dust, but he knew that the dustless spirit would return to the God who gave it. It may be thought that this was to him an affliction, but it was not. He looked on it with peace and without fear.

To us it is now night—to him it is morning. To us there is now darkness, sorrow, longing, pain, to him it is day, peace, happiness. Not is it to him to lose his identity, to lose his personality. By the words of Jesus we know that it is not so. "I go to prepare a place for you. If it were not so I would have told you. If I were to bury the remains of the dear doctor, we do it in the firm assurance that we shall find him in his own personal and loved character beyond the grave, and we know that we shall meet him there. We know that somehow in the exploration of the unknown infinite he will meet those who have gone before, perhaps has met them already. We fancy that through the clouds and mist he was able to see his dear ones.

May our characters be as kind, broad, manly and noble; may our deaths be as peaceful; may our immortality be as beautiful as his was. May God be kind to you, my friends, may he comfort you, may he sustain you with his loving hands.

Rev. W. H. Penhalligon, who had been requested to say a few words, made a very beautiful reference to the fact that the loss of the deceased will be felt in the community.

At the grave the Masonic burial service was performed by Mason Lodge No. 8, A. F. & A. M. The Knights Templars attended as an escort. The pallbearers were Milton Johnson, W. H. Starr, A. W. Conklin, Peter Losh, F. M. Young and Hiram Johnson.

The brothers and sisters of the deceased were James B. Moore, Elizabeth Mitchell, William McKendree Moore, Nancy Wilson, Nelson Moore, S. Parker Moore, Booth Walker Moore, Julia Taylor and Mary C. Gray, of whom Mrs. Mitchell, S. Parker Moore, E. W. Moore and Julia Taylor are living—the others being 85 years old and the youngest 69 years. Mrs. Taylor, who lives in the west, was unable to be present at the funeral on account of snow blockade.

FIVE GIRLS QUIT WORK.

But the Telephone Company Continues to Do Business as Usual.

Manager McMullen, of the Central Telephone Exchange, had a little awkward experience with the labor problem last night, when five of the hullo girls quit work, because their demands for increase in wages was refused. The girls have been getting $15 to $20 a month. They want $35 to $40 a month. The company could not stand the raise, and the young ladies walked out. The strikers were Lizzie Ebert, Ola Shimer, Myrtle Shimer, Belle Hill and Mattie Greves. In the extremity Manager McMullen and the electrician went on duty, and with the help of two or three substitute girls the exchange did business last night in a fairly satisfactory manner. Two extra girls from the Springfield exchange went on duty this morning. The management say their chief aim is to give the public good service. Subscribers will confer a special favor and receive prompt service if they will be careful always to give the number wanted and not the name of the party.

The girls have no complaint to make against Manager McMullen. It is stated that several of the girls had been weary of the work, anyhow, and wanted to quit. The exchange ladies wanting to go on duty. There will be no trouble to secure all the hullo girls wanted, even at the old scale of wages.

MAY COME TO TERMS.

Negotiations to Ward Off Divorce Proceedings in the Scott Case.

To-day a constable visited Mrs. Zion to serve the court notice in the divorce and injunction proceedings of Mrs. Mary C. Scott against Alexander B. Scott, her husband. There is some prospect of warding off legal separation. Mr. Scott is willing to make terms, and David Blalock, father of the wife, has visited his daughter with a view of getting her to come to an agreement. She refuses to make any terms. She has left the case entirely in the hands of her attorney, I. A. Buckingham. The attorney proposes that Mr. Scott shall provide his wife and children a home in Decatur, and make an allowance for their support. Mr. Scott says he is willing to do anything in reason to ward off the divorce. He wants his wife and children to live in Mt. Zion. This Mrs. Scott refuses to do. Further conferences will be necessary to reach an agreement.

A QUEER ATTRACTION.

Lottie Collins, the barking dog and the electric light, which seemed to have an intermittent attack of St. Vitus' dance, kept the large audience at the Grand last night in a state of expectancy, anger and nervousness, which was something quite unusual in the handsome play house. And then Mrs. Carter as Mrs. Helphelt, and Old Proverbs, the Quaker, were so quaint and queer in their roles and sayings that the audience felt a little queer themselves. It was truly an odd production, the singular dialogue being interlarded liberally with musical selections and dancing scenes. Mrs. Carter, who jumped into fame in a sensational divorce case in Chicago, has dramatic talent and would doubtless make a better impression appearing in changes of costume. The audience grew weary of the play and hungered for the appearance of Lottie Collins, the Tar-a-ra-Bum-dee-dee Solist. She came on the stage with a boom in a flaming red costume and did her work like a handmaiden and dashing, and went through the boom business in a way that set the audience wild with delight. Lottie had a good deal to contend with—the fallers of the electric lights and the barking dog. The audience wanted her to repeat the dance. Lottie also came out three times and bowed her thanks. And the dog and the lights were triumphant. But there were many in the audience who felt because Lottie was so shy, and when they left the hall they kept on "bawling the rag," and even to-day they are roasting the dancer for failing to boom it again. The chief merit of the performance was its novelty. It had no other special worth.

Some Matchless Works.

Miss Lillian Wilder, who has on several occasions visited relatives in this city, has sent to her son, Mrs. A. T. Hill, five pieces of decorated china to inspect before forwarding them to the World's Fair, where they will form part of Mason county's exhibit. Miss Wilder resides at Topeka, Kan. The lot embraces a jar, a bouillon cup, a powder jar, a plaque and a jewel case. On the last two are portraits that are perfect in detail and finish, and the entire collection is exquisitely painted and shows marvelous talent and splendid taste.

Nicholls for Town Clerk.

John Nicholls, the present town clerk, who has marched successfully through the technical requirements of the new election law, is announced as a candidate for re-election, subject to the action of the Republican convention. Mr. Nicholls needs no introduction to the voters of Decatur township. He has made a first-class clerk. There are no mistakes to register against him. He is the right man for the right place, and his re-nomination would be well deserved.

Emigrants.

John Manich and John Noll and their families, of Hammond; and H. F. Harris and Jacob Font and their families, of Burrowsville, Thomas Kenney and family of Lovington, J. B. Fickes and family of Atwood, Jos. Dick and family of Benant, William Wilson and Benjamin Bowman and families, of Otero Gordo departed yesterday afternoon for St. Louis in a special train over the Illinois Central railroad.

No News.

A report was current on the streets to-day that Col. A. C. Waterhouse had died in Florida. So far no information has been found corroborating the report. However it is thought to be untrue and that the Colonel and wife are both enjoying reasonably good health at a summer resort in the south.

In the Circuit Court.

Mary Deardoff has filed a bill for a divorce from her husband, Emanuel E. Deardoff, alleging infidelity with Anna Shaw. There are three children, and defendant owns property valued at $1200 in East Park Boulevard, this city. Mrs. D. is now with her mother in Long Creek township.

J. E. Emmet To-Night.

The musical features of J. E. Emmet's "Fritz" have been wisely enlarged for this season. Of course, the well-known lullaby and cuckoo songs and warbles and the shadow dances remain the same, while new business, designed to amuse simple folk for the display of Emmet's versatile talents, has been added. The pipe organ, a regular church affair, will

TEN PERSONS INJURED.

By an Explosion in a St. Louis Gun-Store Yesterday Afternoon.

St. Louis, March 1.—Ten persons were painfully injured yesterday afternoon by an explosion in a gun store, and the guests of two hotels escaped after a scare that few people are called on to endure. At 2:25 o'clock an accidental discharge of gun-powder in the cartridge department of the store, which was on the second floor, No. 819 Pine street, shattered windows and dislodged articles in boxes and stores within a radius of several hundred feet. Intense excitement followed, and for a time traffic on four streets was impeded or blocked.

AS WAS EXPECTED.

Gov. McKinley, While Grateful for Sympathy, Declines Offered Aid to Relief of the Poor.

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 28.—A local paper has received the following communication:

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 27, 1893.

To the Editor:—I cannot express the depth of my gratitude to the people who have sent money to you for me, of which you have advised me; but grateful as I am and always will be for their noble generosity, I cannot accept their contributions. Nothing has touched me more in my misfortune than the letters of sympathy and offers of help from those of my countrymen who have little but what they earn. Please convey to such friends my hearty thanks.

(Signed) WILLIAM MCKINLEY, JR.

Gov. McKinley's Notes.

NEW YORK, March 1.—A special from Cincinnati to the World says: "It is reported here that Gov. McKinley's liabilities, instead of being $115,000, he nearly $200,000. It is also said that he was not only the indorser of notes for Robert Walker, of Youngstown, whose failure brought on the crash, but the joint maker of many of them, which were used in a cash-in-advance venture near Cincinnati. It is in which both were interested. These notes, it is alleged, have been running four or five years."

A special to Youngstown to the same paper says that many notes have been found there which bear the name of Gov. McKinley as principal and of Robert Walker as indorser.

The governor's friends say that he signed the notes in that way so it would be easier for Walker to get the money on them.

THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN REPORTER.

The World's Columbus reporter asked Gov. McKinley about the $300,000 story and he said: "My information is that my name is on notes as maker and indorser to the amount of $102,000 but it is all accommodation paper. There is no cash in it. I am the joint maker of many notes, but it was accommodation paper merely."

JA SENSATIONAL TRIAL.

John Heffer Secures Control of His Children.

LIBERTY, Pa., March 1.—A sensational trial, just heard in the courts here by which John Heffer, of New York city, secures possession of his two children after having spent $50,000 in searching for them. In 1888, John Heffer and his wife, lived at Highville, Mo., but their conjugal relations were unpleasant and they separated. Heffer went to New York and sued for divorce. This he received, and the court put the children under his care. He left the wife and children in the hands of his children, but upon his arrival was informed that his wife had left town with Edward Claypool, taking the children with her. Heffer returned to New York, and two weeks ago secured the wife and children, and the children were living at Grove, Ky. Heffer immediately started for that state. He arrived Friday and was given custody of his children by Judge Myers.
